Why do we mark International Days?

International days and weeks are occasions to educate the public on issues of concern, to mobilize political will and resources to address global problems, and to celebrate and reinforce achievements of humanity. The existence of international days predates the establishment of the United Nations, but the UN has embraced them as a powerful advocacy tool. We also mark other UN observances.

World Wetlands Day is celebrated every year on 2 February. This day marks the date of the adoption of the Convention on Wetlands on 2 February 1971

Wetlands are ecosystems where water is the primary factor controlling the environment and the associated plant and animal life. A broad definition of wetlands includes both freshwater and marine and coastal ecosystems such as all lakes and rivers, underground aquifers, swamps and marshes, wet grasslands, peatlands, oases, estuaries, deltas and tidal flats, mangroves and other coastal areas, coral reefs, and all human-made sites such as fishponds, rice paddies, reservoirs and saltpans.

These lands are critical to people and nature, given the intrinsic value of these ecosystems, and their benefits and services, including their environmental, climate, ecological, social, economic, scientific, educational, cultural, recreational and aesthetic contributions to sustainable development and human wellbeing.

Though they cover only around 6 per cent of the Earth's land surface, 40 per cent of all plant and animal species live or breed in wetlands. Wetland biodiversity matters for our health, our food supply, for tourism and for jobs. Wetlands are vital for humans, for other ecosystems and for our climate, providing essential ecosystem services such as water regulation, including flood control and water purification. More than a billion people across the world depend on wetlands for their livelihoods – that's about one in eight people on Earth.

Why they are in danger

Wetlands are among the ecosystems with the highest rates of decline, loss and degradation. Indicators of current negative trends in global biodiversity and ecosystem functions are projected to continue in response to direct and indirect drivers such as rapid human population growth, unsustainable production and consumption and associated technological development, as well as the adverse impacts of climate change.

Wetlands are disappearing three times faster than forests and are Earth's most threatened ecosystem. In just 50 years — since 1970 — 35% of the world's wetlands have been lost. Human activities that lead to loss of wetlands include drainage and infilling for agriculture and construction, pollution, overfishing and overexploitation of resources, invasive species and climate change.

This vicious cycle of wetland loss, threatened livelihoods, and deepening poverty is the result of mistakenly seeing wetlands as wastelands rather than lifegiving sources of jobs,

MESSAGE

In crisis, women often emerge as unsung heroes, their pivotal role in safeguarding communities deserve both recognition and encouragement. As we delve into the illuminating compendium, let's not just recognise but exalt the invaluable contributions of women in disaster risk management.

Moving beyond mere acknowledgement, we must chart actionable steps to empower women as pivotal agents of change in fortifying resilient communities. Tailored educational programs should equip women with the acumen for active participation in disaster preparedness, response and recovery, while leadership development ensures diversity in decision-making roles.

Crucially, involving women in the design of community-based early warning systems enriches their efficacy and inclusivity. Prioritising women's health and well-being during disasters is imperative for safeguarding both physical and mental resilience.

Economic empowerment helps create opportunities for women in disaster-affected regions, fostering financial independence through women-led businesses for enduring recovery.

Ensuring the active participation of women guarantees that their perspectives are earnestly considered. I commend the contributors of this compendium for their dedication to highlighting women's roles in disaster risk management.

May this document serve as a wellspring of inspiration and a guiding beacon for meaningful initiatives, empowering and elevating women in disaster management, encapsulating our shared commitment to a secure tomorrow.

संदेश

मुझे यह जानकर प्रसन्नता हो रही है कि हमारे माननीय प्रधानमंत्री जी ने भारत में आपदा को कम करने के लिए दस सूत्र दिए हैं। एजेंडा-3 आपदा जोखिम प्रबंधन में महिलाओं की अधिक भागीदारी और नेतृत्व को सुनिश्चित करता है।

जैसा कि हम सभी जानते हैं कि हर साल आपदाओं की संख्या बढ़ रही है। भारत जैसा विकासशील देश तभी आपदा-प्रतिरोधी बन सकता है जब शमन प्रक्रिया की योजना और तैयारी में पुरुषों और महिलाओं की समान भागीदारी सुनिश्चित की जाए। वे न केवल पीड़ित हैं बल्कि उनमें परिवर्तन की प्रेरक शक्ति भी है। उनके पास पूरा ज्ञान और कौशल है जो समाधान प्रदान करने और जोखिम प्रबंधन के लिए महत्वपूर्ण हैं। वे जमीनी स्तर पर आपदा के प्रभावों के बारे में सबसे अच्छी तरह जानते हैं।

महिलाओं का सहयोग सुनिश्चित होने पर ही सरकारी लक्ष्यों की प्राप्ति होगी। अध्ययन के व्यापक लाभों के लिए हमें एक अतिरिक्त मील भी आगे बढ़ना होगा। यदि हम आपदा के प्रति उनकी प्रतिरोधक क्षमता बढ़ाने में महिलाओं की भूमिका को मजबूत करने का प्रयास नहीं करते हैं तो विनाश का आकार और हानिकारक परिणाम बढ़ेंगे।

मुझे आशा है कि DRR के लिए हमारे माननीय प्रधानमंत्री का नया दृष्टिकोण आपदा-प्रतिरोधी राष्ट्र का निर्माण करेगा और आपदा जोखिम न्यूनीकरण नीति की लैंगिक संवेदनशीलता सुनिश्चित करने के लिए महिलाओं की भागीदारी के मुद्दों पर एक अभिनव दृष्टिकोण दिखाएगा। जेंडर घटक को अतिरिक्त भाग मानने की बजाय विकास प्रक्रिया का अभिन्न अंग मानना आवश्यक है।

मैं NIDM को माननीय प्रधानमंत्री जी के DRR के दस सूत्रीय एजेंडे के अंतर्गत संग्रह लाने के लिए बधाई देता हूँ।

मैं IUINDRR-NIDM द्वारा किए गए प्रयासों का समर्थन करने के लिए सभी को हार्दिक शुभकामनाएं देता हूँ।

MESSAGE

IUINDRR-NIDM is an initiative connected to Agenda six of the Hon'ble Prime Minister's Ten Point Agenda on Disaster Risk Reduction in India. It was launched on 25th February 2021, by the Hon'ble Minister of State for Home Affairs, Shri Nityanand Rai.

While the journey so far has been encouraging, the strength of the network lies in its structure which provides a platform for the higher education sector to incorporate the innovations, knowledge, and ideas towards the needs in the field of disaster risk reduction at various levels.

The efforts of the academia displayed at the state and district levels are praiseworthy and speak volumes about the leadership commitment and productive effort involved the objectives of this Network and Agenda six.

As a well-received initiative, it is only due to the consistent support of all the stakeholders involved in this network that we have been able to engage various universities and institutions on the national platform.

I am pleased to be a part of disseminating this compendium, consisting of innovative activities and best practices compiled by higher education institutions and universities at the regional, state, and district levels across the country.

I would like to extend my sincere appreciation and congratulate the IUINDRR- NIDM team for their initiative in mapping 27 such case studies from across the country and bringing them out as a compendium.

The publication of this compendium identifies academicians and their institutions which have contributed towards the women's role in disaster risk reduction. I hope this will turn out to be a great source of reference to improvise and build up on the strategies towards gender mainstreaming in the field of disaster risk reduction. I would like to thank the universities and institutes which have contributed to this compendium, and the women whose struggle will pave the way for transformational changes in the field of disaster risk reduction.

FOREWORD

The Indian Universities and Institutions Network for Disaster Risk Reduction (IUINDRR-NIDM) is proud to present this unique booklet on Innovative Activities that have been executed by our country's higher education universities and institutions. It is heartening to witness this compendium where an attempt has been made to capture initiatives taken by higher education and their story of remarkable success in the field of disaster management.

My team has been working diligently to compile the best initiatives that universities and institutions have designed, implemented, and monitored in order to showcase their unwavering resolve to stand up for women's issues and gender mainstreaming.

Our information sources have been the Vice Chancellors and Head of the institutions and Universities that have displayed their strong commitment by providing us with constructive input in a timely manner.

I would like to take this opportunity to deeply thank the leadership team at the Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, for their guidance and advice. I would also like to appreciate the enterprising and tireless efforts of the IUINDRR-NIDM secretariat in highlighting the achievements of this pioneering compendium comprehensively. I am also extremely grateful to Former Executive Director, Shri Taj Hassan and present Executive Director, Shri Rajendra Ratnool, IAS for their support in this endeavour to produce a document demonstrating the various attempts being made to empower women across the length and breadth of our country towards disaster resilience.

This compendium is a small step toward our Nation's resolution to make our country disaster resilient and strengthen gender equality by promoting the need to establish a safe, conducive, and promising environment for women. I earnestly hope the information provided in this booklet is meaningful, productive and inspiring. PREFACE

In pursuance of the Hon'ble Prime Minister Ten Point's Agenda 6, a Network of Universities and institutions has emerged, which was outlined by him before the leaders of the Asian Countries during the Asian Ministerial Conference hosted by the Government of India in the year 2016 in New Delhi. The Agenda 6 of Hon'ble PM's 10 point Agenda stresses developing a network of universities and institutions to work on disaster issues in India. Hence, the National Institute of Disaster Management, Ministry of Home Affairs, and Govt. of India took an initiative of making an India Universities & Institutions Network for Disaster Risk Reduction (IUINDRR-NIDM) for building partnerships with Universities and Institutions in the field of disaster risk reduction.

The Indian Universities and Institutions Network for Disaster Risk Reduction-National Institute of Disaster Management (NIDM), India, took the initiative to compile Good Practices of universities and institutions on Agenda 3, "Role of Women in Disaster Risk Management." The Agenda 3 of the Hon'ble Prime Minister focuses on the importance of women's involvement in risk reduction and reconstruction of society.

It is necessary to encourage greater involvement and leadership of women in disaster risk management to support the special needs of women affected by disasters. Women are generally seen as vulnerable to disasters; but women can play an important role in disaster risk reduction in the household, society, community and beyond. We need a large number of women volunteers, engineers, masons and building artisans to participate in post-disaster reconstruction and promote women's self-help groups which can assist in livelihood recovery. There is a need to include women in NDRF and SDRF, and to train elected women representatives at the local level under development.

Hence, in this direction, the present compendium targets to foster support and the role of academicians and researchers in disaster risk reduction.

As per the theme of the Compendium, an attempt has been made to explore how women can be mainstreamed to reduce the risk and impact of a disaster. Participatory methods, community feedback and complaints, expert knowledge, and relevant literature are identified as the most appropriate methods to recognise women's role in disaster risk management.

The articles selected to be included in the compendium further outline the existing barriers, responsible parties, relevant protocols, and ways of promoting the process in relation to mainstreaming women in their given environment.

Mainstreaming gender in terms of disaster risk management requires identifying gender-based vulnerabilities and capacities of people as the basic step. Then, the specific needs which arise from gender-based vulnerabilities and the capacities of people are required to be integrated into development to minimise the vulnerabilities. In this compendium, capacities are considered as people's knowledge of disaster risk management that they possess based on their past disaster experiences. Accordingly, incorporating the knowledge and needs to reduce the risk of a disaster for women by identifying the knowledge and needs, and integrating the other processes of the given environment with the intention of risk reduction are referred to as mainstreaming them. Various case studies included in the compendium take us through a journey of various strategies that different educational institutions/universities across the country have applied so far to integrate the components of disaster risk reduction and emergency preparedness to mainstream the role of women in the realm of Disaster Management. The initiatives carried out by IUINDRR-NIDM towards the Role and Contribution of Higher Educational Institutions in Disaster Risk Reduction in India. The initiative's objective is to give recognition to good practices/initiatives on Agenda 3 of the Hon'ble PM, which can be replicated and scaled up by providing a platform for diverse stakeholders, including key Government departments.

Climate Change Warriors

One of the critical indicators of disaster risk reduction is gender equity in disaster preparedness.

Women are seen in the traditional role as homemakers but their ability to take a managerial role in disaster risk management was underestimated being a rural college and women's empowerment as one of their distinctiveness climate change warriors was launched in the year 2021. Investing more, and in a targeted manner, in women can help increase resilience. Given women's social roles, they are challenged by and have a deeper understanding of rural and urban vulnerabilities.

The Practice:

1. Training women students in the college and the community in Disaster Risk management.
2. Encouraging women in spreading awareness on Disaster Preparedness in Community.
3. Volunteering during disasters and disaster rehabilitation.
4. Empowering women to strengthen disaster resilience of the community.

Evidence of Success:

1. Women students were trained in the college and the community in Disaster Risk management through webinar.
2. The students and faculty completed training programs registering with MGNCRE and NIDM.
3. The students were engaged in spreading awareness post COVID on Disaster Preparedness in Community.
4. Volunteering during flooding
5. Empowering women to strengthen disaster resilience of the community.
6. The faculty also completed courses in registering with NIDM.

Nazareth Sapling Centre- Leave behind a legacy to the future generation.

Planting trees fight climate change and a simple way to soak up carbon emission. Post pandemic the number of trees has considerably reduced in Avadi because of improper maintenance during covid 19 lockdown. The Nazareth sapling center was initiated in the year 2022 to distribute free saplings to all. SDG 15 aims to protect, restore and promote sustainable use of terrestrial eco systems, sustainably manage forests, combat desertification and halt and reverse land degradation and halt biodiversity loss.

The Practice:

1. To grow saplings from seeds inside the campus
2. To collect saplings from the students
3. To distribute the saplings to students, faculties and any guests visiting the campus for events.
4. To create awareness on the importance of tree conservation through workshop
5. To help Avadi Municipal Corporation in covering empty spaces with small dense forests.
6. Creating dense forests in small spaces for communities.

Evidence of Success:

1. Total of more than 5000 tree saplings grown on campus.
2. Students collected 500 saplings from their home.
3. Total of 3000 saplings distributed to visitors and public.
4. Awareness programme conducted for the students (NSS & NCC).
5. Tree sapling plantation in the neighborhood community.
6. Created dense forest for the University of Madras, Vice Chancellor Residence.

NERF-Feed the Need - Nazareth Community Food Box

Sustainable Development Goal 2 is about creating a world free of hunger by 2030. There are many people going hungry and suffering from food insecurity. The main objective of this initiative is to serve hot, fresh food to the homeless. This is an initiative involving the students and staff who are trying to help homeless who suffer from hunger. “If you can’t feed a hundred people then feed just one” said Mother Theresa, the students and faculty are encouraged to bring food for the Nazareth Community Food Box to feed not one but many. When cooking at home for family the students and faculty are encouraged to cook some extra food that can serve 1 person extra and pack it neatly and deposit in the NCFB. About 1 in 50 people worldwide are suffering from hunger and this small initiative will help vulnerable and homeless people in Avadi Municipal Corporation.

The Practice:

1. To collect fresh home cooked food from students and faculty on every Wednesday

Principal
Nazareth College of Arts & Science
Kovilpathagai Main Road, Kannadapalayam,
Vellanoor Post, Avadi, Chennai-600062.

2. To distribute the food to the homeless and poor near Avadi
3. To distribute the food every Wednesday
4. To spread awareness in the neighborhood on wastage of food

Problems Encountered:

1. The major problem encountered was that the people who are not homeless demanded the food packets and the students were unable to refuse food.
2. The homeless requested non vegetarian food.

Evidence of Success:

This initiative was launched in the year 2019 and has completed a year of feeding the hungry in Avadi Municipal Corporation. More than 2000 food packets have been distributed to the homeless. This initiative has also given us a larger scope to convert it into a community food box at gated communities in Avadi.

Kanmani- Period Poverty

Period poverty affects a minimum of 500 million people every month. For example, of India's 355 million people who menstruate, 12% cannot afford period products. Lack of access to period products can occur due to financial and physical barriers. Prices of period products can put these vital supplies out of reach for many people in both developing and developed countries. People in vulnerable situations are affected most by period poverty, including people already facing homelessness, low income, and systemic exclusion for being members of marginalized groups.

People in developed and developing countries face period poverty due to social and cultural stigmas, misinformation, and gender discrimination around periods. Right now, 800 million people around the world are menstruating, with many trying to hide the evidence of bleeding or struggling to find sanitary supplies. Secrecy, shame, and stigma burden people who menstruate. One pressing issue associated with period poverty is access to education. In India, around 23 million girls drop out of school annually due to the lack of safe and sanitary menstrual hygiene management—including access to products and lack of awareness about menstruation. To decrease period poverty, menstrual products need to be made more affordable and accessible. Menstrual hygiene and education also need to be taken more seriously by governments, decision makers, and educators.

"Kanmani" – low-cost safe sanitary napkin pads manufactured by the Idhu Namma Avadi Trust which employs local women as a project to empower the neighborhood women. The production unit is housed inside the campus of Nazareth College, Kovilpathagai, Avadi and it employs about 8 neighborhood women. The College has taken up a task to bring awareness on mensural hygiene to all the girl students in Avadi. The Pad is made to the Standard Quality as per IS 5405 (1980). Kanmani Awareness is a project that was launched to spread awareness on "Menstrual Hygiene" among the adolescent school children in Avadi city Municipality. The production unit is housed inside the campus of Nazareth College, Kovilpathagai, Avadi and it employs about 8 neighborhood women. students in Avadi. The Pad is made to the Standard Quality as per IS 5405 (1980). The unit has Cutting, Sterilizing, Sealing and Pressurizing Machines to manufacture the Sanitary Pads. The single women in the community are trained in the manufacturing unit and packaging process

Sustainable practice:

The Kanmani sanitary pad is to be upgraded to biodegradable pads. This will be a positive impact on soil, water, air, forests. Further the affordability of these pads is high as prices are low. As these pads can be buried in a pit it is environmentally sustainable. These pads also created livelihood option for single women.

Evidence of Success:

1. Women students were trained in the college as master trainers on Menstrual Hygiene
2. A module on Menstrual hygiene was developed to spread awareness on Menstrual hygiene in the neighboring schools, public places through folk arts (Karagam, Oyilattam and Mime).
3. The college established a manufacturing unit to manufacture Biodegradable Sanitary pads – Kanmani by employing single women.
4. A total of 95 women students are trained to spread awareness on Menstrual Hygiene.
5. The practice has reached 20000 girl students and 1000 women, 90 tribal women.
